

Genomic Counselling for Genetic Counsellors

2–3 July 2015

Wellcome Trust Genome Campus, Hinxton, UK

This new Wellcome Trust workshop aims to meet the training needs of genetic counsellors as they upskill in response to the introduction of genomic sequencing in the clinic. The programme will address the fundamental aspects of genomics and bioinformatics that underpin clinical practice, focusing on communication issues relevant to all practising genetic counsellors. Attendees will have the opportunity to work with sequence data and explore how it is created, analysed and delivered.

The workshop is suitable for practising and trainee genetic counsellors and genetic nurses. It has been designed so that it is relevant for genetic counsellor registration CPD.

Topics

- Genetic to genomic counselling
- Sequencing and bioinformatics
- Choosing what to test for and taking consent
- Sequencing analysis and interpretation
- Visualising and reporting genomic data
